I Didn't Know That about Ford! – Part 2

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia
Note: the citations presented in this article refer to Wikipedia article.

Ford Motor Company (commonly known as Ford) is an American multinational automobile manufacturer headquartered in Dearborn, Michigan, United States. It was founded by Henry Ford and incorporated on June 16, 1903. The company sells automobiles and commercial vehicles under the Ford brand, and luxury cars under its Lincoln brand. Ford also owns a 32% stake in China's Jiangling Motors.[8] It also has joint ventures in China (Changan Ford), Taiwan (Ford Lio Ho), Thailand (AutoAlliance Thailand), and Turkey (Ford Otosan). The company is listed on the New York Stock Exchange and is controlled by the Ford family; they have minority ownership but the majority of the voting power.[6][9]

Ford introduced methods for large-scale manufacturing of cars and large-scale management of an industrial workforce using elaborately engineered manufacturing sequences typified by moving assembly lines; by 1914, these methods were known around the world as Fordism. Ford's former UK subsidiaries Jaguar and Land Rover, acquired in 1989 and 2000, respectively, were sold to the Indian automaker Tata Motors in March 2008. Ford owned the Swedish automaker Volvo from 1999 to 2010.[10] In 2011, Ford discontinued the Mercury brand, under which it had marketed entry-level luxury cars in the United States, Canada, Mexico, and the Middle East since 1938.

Ford is the second-largest U.S.-based automaker (behind General Motors) and the sixth-largest in the world (behind Toyota, Volkswagen Group, Hyundai Motor Group, Stellantis, and General Motors) based on 2022 vehicle production.[11] At the end of 2010, Ford was the fifth-largest automaker in Europe.[12] The company went public in 1956 but the Ford family, through special Class B shares, still retain 40 percent of the voting rights.[6][13] During the financial crisis of 2007–08, the company struggled financially but did not have to be rescued by the federal government, unlike the other two major US automakers.[14][15] Ford Motors has since returned to profitability,[16] and was the eleventh-ranked overall American-based company in the 2018 Fortune 500 list, based on global revenues in 2017 of $156.7 billion.[17] In 2008, Ford produced 5.532 million automobiles[18] and employed about 213,000 employees at around 90 plants and facilities worldwide.

History
Main article: History of Ford Motor Company
20th century

Founder Henry Ford c. 1919
The Henry Ford Company was Henry Ford's first attempt at a car manufacturing company and was established on November 3, 1901. This became the Cadillac Motor Company on August 22, 1902, after Ford left with the rights to his name.[19] The Ford Motor Company was launched in a converted factory in 1903 with $28,000 (equivalent to $912,000 in 2022) in cash from twelve investors, most notably John and Horace Dodge (who would later found their own car company). The first president was not Ford, but local banker John S. Gray, who was chosen in order to assuage investors' fears that Ford would leave the new company the way he had left its predecessor. During its early years, the company produced just a few cars a day at its factory on Mack Avenue and later at its factory on Piquette Avenue in Detroit, Michigan. Groups of two or three men worked on each car, assembling it from parts made mostly by supplier companies contracting for Ford. Within a decade the company led the world in the expansion and refinement of the assembly line concept, and Ford soon brought much of the part production in-house (vertical integration).

Henry Ford was 39 years old when he founded the Ford Motor Company, which would go on to become one of the world's largest and most profitable companies. It has been in continuous family control for over 100 years and is one of the largest family-controlled companies in the world. [citation needed]

The first gasoline-powered automobile had been created in 1885 by the German inventor Karl Benz (Benz Patent-Motorwagen). More efficient production methods were needed to make automobiles affordable for the middle class, to which Ford contributed by, for instance, introducing the first moving assembly line in 1913 at the Ford factory in Highland Park. [citation needed]

A 1910 Model T (introduced in 1908), photographed in Salt Lake City

Between 1903 and 1908, Ford produced the Models A, B, C, F, K, N, R, and S. Hundreds or a few thousand of most of these were sold per year. In 1908, Ford introduced the mass-produced Model T, which totaled millions sold over nearly 20 years. In 1927, Ford replaced the T with the Model A, the first car with safety glass in the windshield.[20] Ford launched the first low-priced car with a V8 engine in 1932. [citation needed]

In an attempt to compete with General Motors' mid-priced Pontiac, Oldsmobile, and Buick, Ford created the Mercury in 1939 as a higher-priced companion car to Ford. Henry Ford purchased the Lincoln Motor Company in 1922, in order to compete with such brands as Cadillac and Packard for the luxury segment of the automobile market. [citation needed]

In 1929, Ford was contracted by the government of the Soviet Union to set up the Gorky Automobile Plant in Russia initially producing Ford Model A and AAs thereby playing an important role in the industrialization of that country.[21]

B-24 Liberator bombers being mass-produced at Ford's Willow Run assembly plant in 1944

During World War II, the United States Department of War picked Ford to mass-produce the Consolidated B-24 Liberator bomber at its Willow Run assembly plant.[22] Ford Werke and Ford SAF (Ford's subsidiaries in Germany and France, respectively) produced military vehicles and other equipment for Nazi Germany's war effort. Some of Ford's operations in Germany at the time were run using forced labor.

The creation of a scientific laboratory in Dearborn, Michigan, in 1951, doing unfettered basic research, led to Ford's unlikely involvement in superconductivity research. In 1964, Ford Research Labs made a key breakthrough with the invention of a superconducting quantum interference device or SQUID.[23]

Ford offered the Lifeguard safety package from 1956, which included such innovations as a standard deep-dish steering wheel, optional front, and, for the first time in a car, rear seatbelts, and an optional padded dash.[24] Ford introduced child-proof door locks into its products in 1957, and, in the same year, offered the first retractable hardtop on a mass-produced six-seater car.[25]

In late 1955, Ford established the Continental division as a separate luxury car division. This division was responsible for the manufacture and sale of the famous Continental Mark II. At the same time, the Edsel division was created to design and market that car starting with the 1958 model year. Due to limited sales of the Continental and the Edsel disaster, Ford merged Mercury, Edsel, and Lincoln into "M-E-L," which reverted to "Lincoln-Mercury" after Edsel's November 1959 demise.[25]

The Ford Mustang was introduced on April 17, 1964, during New York World's Fair (where Ford had a pavilion made by The Walt Disney Company).[26][27] In 1965, Ford introduced the seat belt reminder light. [citation needed]

With the 1980s, Ford introduced several highly successful vehicles around the world. During the 1980s, Ford began using the advertising slogan, "Have you driven a Ford, lately?" to introduce new customers to their brand and make their vehicles appear more modern. In 1990 and 1994, respectively, Ford also acquired Jaguar Cars and Aston Martin.[28] During the mid-to-late 1990s, Ford continued to sell large numbers of vehicles, in a booming American economy with a soaring stock market and low fuel prices. [citation needed]

With the dawn of the new century, legacy health care costs, higher fuel prices, and a faltering economy led to falling market shares, declining sales, and diminished profit margins. Most of the corporate profits came from financing consumer automobile loans through Ford Motor Credit Company.[29]

Steak 'n Shake Cruise-In – August 5, 2023

Johnny Cox, Yvonna Davis & Dave Walters were in attendance on the first Saturday in August.

Because of the rain shower in the morning, we decided to go to Steak 'n Shake in the early afternoon. There was a just one car in the parking lot. I have never seen the lot that empty.

CPR Training Class – August 20, 2023

The Classic Chevy Club hosted an informational CPR training class on August 20, 2023. The training class was presented by CoxHealth.

Melinda Owen supplied the following write up for the newsletter.

“Club members met at the CCAD building in Ozark on August 20 for an informational training class on CPR and first aid. Members attending were Tom and Chris Berg, Brent Forgey, C.L. and Mollie Carter, Dan and Mary Kuhn Wade and Gerri Mitchell, Melinda Owen, Norma and Dennis Taube with guest Scott Podiliska and Tom Trosper. The class instructor presented the information and training in an easy-to-understand format and was very personable, making it comfortable to ask questions.

Attendees learned how to administer CPR and practiced on dummies. The dummies had lights that told when the proper pressure and technique was being applied. It was a little hectic at times. It was a little comical at times. Especially when several of our members tried to get down on the floor to practice on the dummy. One even had to be helped up and shall remain nameless! After several tries everyone figured out the proper technique. The class also learned how to use an AED device. (Automatic External Defibrillator)

After the CPR practice the instructor covered some basic first aid topics and showed the class how to use a tourniquet properly.

Everyone attending agreed it was time well spent.”

Marshfield Cruise In – August 12, 2023

Two car club couples attended the Marshfield Cruisers cruise in on August 12, 2023. They were Charles & Diane Mahaffey and Wade & Gerri Mitchell.

Cruise to Springhouse Village – October 14, 2023

The car club occasionally participates in community service activities that support our relationships with veterans', medical, and educational organizations. This normally includes cruise-ins to veteran facilities, assisted living residences, or local schools or churches. We accomplished an event on October 15, 2022. A group of members caravanned to Springhouse Village Retirement on East Farm Road 132 in Springfield to show off our classics.

This year the date of a repeat performance is October 14. Last year, As Melinda wrote in the event flier, "Let's take this opportunity to bring a smile to the faces of their residents by offering our classic cars for viewing. We will park our cars and give the residents the opportunity to come out and see our cars."

We had a great time talking to the residents. And we were treated very well by the staff.

More information will follow.

Classic Chevy Club Fall Foliage Tour – October 28, 2023

Instead of attending the out of state Fall Foliage Tour, we plan to have our own Fall Foliage Tour here. The tentative date is October 28.

The parking lots at the school were full but not overflowing.
